

Statement on terror attack in Manchester

The terrible terrorist attack in Manchester has taken and devastated the lives of many innocent and decent people, including men, women and children, out with the peaceful aim of enjoying themselves. Such shocking events impact all people in the world, but none more so than the families of the victims who are in our thoughts and prayers.

We are also thinking of the Greater Manchester police, emergency services and hospital staff involved. Their training will have saved lives but no amount of training can take away the impact that will be felt.

This incident reminds all people in society of the need to be vigilant and prepared against the sort of acts that the criminal terrorist minority seek to use to attack our way of life.
